Corporate singing possible again

As the Federal Council announced, the positive development in the number of cases enables a return to "normality" to a large extent. The remaining restrictions have been simplified and rely on a lot of personal responsibility. We are happy that it will be possible for us to sing together again. To keep the risk of infection low, we continue to implement the distance and hygiene guidelines as usual.

In the coming weeks, our focus in organizing our events will continue to be on three main points. Distance (1.5 meters), hygiene (hand washing or disinfection) and contact tracing (contact details and seating). With these simple measures we can curb the possible spread of the virus or ensure traceability.

In addition to all the joy about these positive developments, this step also involves challenges. So many questions about the Corona virus have not yet been finally clarified and there are differences in the way people deal with the remaining restrictions. This demands a lot of mutual consideration and understanding from us. By complying with the distance and hygiene guidelines and benevolent dealings with one another, we create an atmosphere in which everyone can feel comfortable. We are also happy if someone watches the service via livestream, goes a distance or wears a mask in worship. In this way we all will be able to experience touching and inspiring worship services in a variety of ways in the coming weeks.
